Venango Campus Clarion University

In Deep Appreciation, The 1991 Dedication Goes to N. Sowers

Venango Campus has gone through many changes since it opened its doors to higher education. One thing that has remained the same since August of 1969 is the so familiar face of Nancy Sowers. Nancy is the person responsible for all the books and supplies that are needed throughout each semester, twice a year. When she came to Venango Campus, the bookstore was located in Frame which was the only building constructed at that time. She has had the opportunity to see the campus grow from a single structure to the campus we currently have. Nancy deserves all the love and recognition we can extend to her. The students of Venango Campus would like to thank Nancy for all the help she has given to them. Her dedication is an asset to this campus and is appreciated.

You can always expect a smile from Nancy when you see her. She estimates that approximately 2400 books are sold each semester.

Along with the books, Nancy offers a variety of supplies, clothing, cards and snack items.

If you can't find what you are looking for, ask Nancy. If she can't help you, no one can.

In the middle of the maze of desks and paperwork is Bonnie's world.

It's Cindy and Penny and Bonnie! OH MY!!! When you enter Frame office, these are the three you most likely see. If you have a problem or concern with school, they can help you. Our hats off to you! Keep up the GOOD work!

TO ALL FACULTY AND STAFF:

he 1991 Yearbook Staff would like to thank all of you for your cooperation and understanding during the production.

We also extend our apologies to the faculty and staff who we were unable to capture for a photo.

he 1991 Yearbook Staff has finally seen "the light at the end of the tunnel." Throughout the year, the staff has been busy planning, typing and taking pictures to make our ideas a finished product. Many people are needed to do all the work involved with yearbook production. There's pictures to be taken, copy to be written and typed and layouts to be done to produce a quality yearbook.

I would like to thank everyone who worked so hard to make this yearbook a reality. A special thanks goes to Jane Horner, Gregg Graham, Mark Yashinski, Cristy Deets and Tom Irwin for taking pictures, writing copy and their time in general. A BIG thanks goes to Theresa Fenstermaker for all her time typing copy.

I would also like to invite new faces to add to our staff for the coming year. New faces and ideas is a must for creativity.

My staff and I have tried to capture our spirit "Come Soar With Us!" this year. I hope everyone enjoys all the memories we were able to capture. As they say, "A Picture is worth a Thousand Words."

THANKS EVERYBODY!!

Richard C. Frame Hall

Venango Campus was established in 1961. Local money was raised to procure the present 62 acre-site and erect the first classroom building that opened in January 1962. The classroom building, later named the Richard C. Frame building in memory of the late State Senator from Franklin, also housed the bookstore, library and a study/cafeteria area.

On June 24, 1965, ground was broken for the campus dormitory named in honor of J. G. Montgomery Jr. Participants in the ceremony used a gold shovel which was subsequently melted down, and the proceeds were contributed to the campus building fund. As former Mayor Joseph Barr stated, "He furnished our community with much of its spirit, quality, and direction."

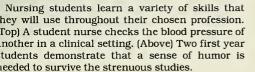

Nursing Department

Venango Campus started a nursing program in 1970, enrolling approxi-mately 45 students each year. To date, they have graduated in excess of 840 students. Due to a large return of the Associate graduates, the Nursing School started the BSN program in 1983. The School of Nursing currently employs 12 nursing instructors. Venango Campus is affiliated with Franklin Regional Medical Center, Oil City Area Health Center, and Titusville Hospital and use them for the students' clinical experience.

Alta Landas and Yvonne Ames, without their secretarial expertise, the Nursing Department wouldn't run quite as smoothly as it does.

Library Staff

Libby Williams, 1989-90 Head Librarian, retired last semester after 28 years of service. We all will miss her and wish her well. Richard Snow is the successor of Libby Williams who retired last semester. He is assuming the position and responsibilities of Head Librarian. We wish him the best of luck.

Rhoades Center

Rhoades Center was named for R. W. Rhoades in February of 1976. Through his efforts, the establishment of Venango Campus was transformed from idea to reality. After the creation of the branch college here, he served as a member of the Campus Advisory Committee and on the Clarion State College Board of Trustees.

Suhr Library

Suhr Library was named for Charles L. Suhr and opened July 6, 1976. Mr. Suhr served Pennzoii Company for 72 years, starting his career as a cierical worker at age 15 to eventually become the president and chairman of the board. He was also one of the five founders of Venango Campus, inc.

MWSEC Held Extramurals

Venango Campus students participated in many athletic events this year. At Kittaning there was softball and tennis. At Pitt of Titusville there was volleyball. Gregg Graham, the sole tennis player, was beat in the fourth round. The softball team, looked like they were going to rip up, but lost in the play-offs to Pitt of Titusville.

However, the volleyball team from Venango Campus was great. The women's team came in second. The men's team also came in second. But the co-ed team finished first by defeating a strong Pitt of Titusville team. Way to go Venango Campus. Way to go! Do the same next year!

(Pictured at the Top) Scott Switzer and teammates are warming up for perfection. Coach Larry Grill says they really didn't need it. He said that they looked like they could play the Pittsburgh Pirates Pictured beside us is Paul Grunenwald preparing to pitch for part of the game. At bat are the opponents of Venango Campus.

Pictured above is Becky Antkowiak, she was one of three girls that played softball. Becky originally was going to play tennis with Gregg Graham but was needed to play softball so Venango Campus would not have to forfeit. You did a great job Becky even though Gregg could have used your help! Warming up the outfielders, Larry says he is going to win the tournament. Better luck next year Larry!

Look at him jump! Scott says that he will do anything to win this game!

The Outdoor Club's Fly-In at Chess Lamberton Airport

Venango Campus held its 5th annual Fly-In on Oct. 21, 1990. This activity, sponsored by the Student Senate, is organized and run by the Outdoor Club. The Fly-In, conducted at Chess Lamberton Airport, is held every Fall. The planes and pilots are donated, with the only cost to Senate being reimbursement for fuel. Thanks to the weather, the pilots flew 171 people this year. The Fly-In, one of the most popular activities held by Venango Campus, has more people participating every year.

The Student Senate and Outdoor Club would like to thank the following people for their donation of time and the use of their planes: William Smith, Steven Root, Russ Baldwin, Jack Smith, Harrington Machine Inc., Tom Harrington and Tom Wylie from Wings, Inc. A big thanks to Jeff Smith, V. President of the Outdoor Club, who spent the day at the airport helping people get on the proper flights. Thanks also to Britt DeTilla, Secretary of the Outdoor Club, for all her help at the airport.

The crowd waited patiently for thei turns — Gates were locked when ther were no airplanes waiting to be loaded Pictured below are a few patient on lookers who awaited their turn.

This scheduled event was to bring families closer together and to show the guests that Venango Campus is a School that likes to excite their students. This family, (above) waited a long time to fly in the family airplane (One that could hold them all!). Many people, excited to see the Campus from above, were also able to see their homes.

ne Fly-In was run by a few great memers of the Outdoor Club. Here Jeff mith tells people when they can go up the airplanes. You did a great job eff!

As you can see with the picture below, the wind was a total disaster. Below, Jeff Smith tells Cindie Litwiler and guests, when they can take their turns.

The two pictures above show the type of crowds that the Fly-In attracted. From talking to the people who went to the Fly-in, they really enjoyed it and would like to do it again.

Student Senate introduced the Campus to the world of comedy with the Phillips Brothers Magic of Comedy and Juggling. Tony and Dave Phillips started the "It's a Party!" show by juggling various objects such as apples, knives, flaming torches, and a running chainsaw. This comedy duo was a great success at the campus and we hope you will enjoy the coming special activities.

Homecoming Queen Terri Brumbaugh and her escort Trevor Parson

Terri participated in the homecoming activities at the Main Campus in Clarion, this included the annual homecoming parade. We want to congratulate Terri on this honor and let her know she'll always be our queen.

Melanie Parker, our resident photographer, takes graduate pictures for the yearbook. A special thanks to her for all her time and effort. It was greatly appreciated by students and the yearbook staff. THANKS MEL!

I think we all feel this way at one time or another.

Mark Yashinski assumed the responsibilities of The Bulletin in the middle of February. Mark has been hard at work ever since. Keep up the good work!

Bulletin Production

The students and faculty of Venango Campus would like to extend their heartfelt thanks to Elizabeth Graham. Through her many hours of hard work, she has provided us with an informative and always entertaining newspaper.

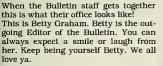

Oftentimes, into the wee hours of the morning, you would find her haunting Montgomery Hall, struggling to meet the paper's deadline. The walls of her office echo with her spirited laughter or occasionally her sighs of frustration, as she types, folds, and pastes the Campus Bulletin into shape.

Needless to say, we are saddened that she will be resigning in May, after only one year as editor of the BULLETIN.

We're all going to miss you, Betty.

Work on the Bulletin is complex and very time consuming. After the news is collected and organized, it is placed into the computer. Clip art and ads are then included into the articles. The final draft is then sent to the printers . . . by 8 a.m. each Friday the staff awaits the return of the 500 copies to be folded, sorted and distributed by Monday. Students can't wait to enjoy the contents of the BULLETIN.

Melanie Parker takes graduate pictures in her spare time for the yearbook. Thanks Melanie, the staff really appreciated all your help.

Mary Beth White 1991 Editor

The Editor for the 1991 Pathfinder is Mary Beth White. Mary Beth has been on the yearbook staff for 2 years. During this time her duties included coditor, photographer, doing layouts, and writing copy. As the editor, her job was not an easy one. The organizing, planning, and formulation involved many long nights, as well as long hours. Her contribution to the 1991 Pathfinder is greatly appreciated, and her dedication appears in the pages you are now reading.

Tom Irwin became the Co-Editor in January. Since this time he has been responsible for all layouts, quad paks, and copy. Tom has been a big help, Thanks Tom, it was appreciated.

The photo below is a very important symbol to the vearbook staff. This symbolizes our light at the end of

YEARBOOK PRODUCTION

Months have been put forth to create the production of this yearbook. From the concept to the rough draft, the quad pak, and copy, the yearbook starts taking shape. Many arguments over placement of pictures and wording are also heard through the office. But through level thinking and open minds, we were able to create the best possible yearbook with what we had to work with. We truly hope you enjoy this yearbook and extend our apologies if there was an error with your picture or name. Very truly yours, The Yearbook Staff
